eral's Death Warrant

Passengers on the Acapulco Say That Minister Mizner Virtually Signed the Doomed Gen-

By Telegraph to The Times.

New York, Sept. 12.—[By the Associated Press.] The Pacific Mail ship Colton, which reached here to-day, brought some of the passengers who were on board the steamship Acapulco at the time of the killing of General Barrundia. One of the eye-witnesses of the tragedy told the story to an Associated Press reporter.

It appears that Gen. Barrundia came It appears that Gen. Barrundia came on board at Acapulco, Mexico, and was understood to be on his way to San Salvador. He was attended by two men as body guards. When the ship arrived at Champerleo, Guatemala, the authorities there demanded that Barrundia be surrendered. Capt. Pitts peremtorily refused to do so. They withheld clearance papers for 24 hours, but finally allowed him to proceed. When the yearsal arrived him to proceed. When the vessel arrived at San José, two boat-loads of soldiers were sent off from the shore to see that no one without proper credentials should leave the vessel. Within a pistol shot of her were two United States gunboats. Capt. Pitts had telegraphed their commanding officer egraphed their commanding officer from Champerico requesting assistance, but the dispatch had not been delivered. Now he made a personal appeal for help. The response was that they could do nothing without an order from the Port Captain.

The next day the ship was again invaded by the Comandante with a special force of men and another boat load of soldiers. The Guatemalan Comandante produced an "order of arrest" signed by American Minister Mizner, and made a formal demand for the delivery of Barrundia. Then he directed all the cabin passengers to be ordered below. When this order was executed the entire force proceeded to Barrundia's room, Capt. Pitts with them.

beily met them at the door, but at nee divining that all was over, he seehed into the room for a revolver, and making the remark "Very good," red. The ball just missed Capt. Its, who, with the Guatemalan Comnante ran to his room, locked the oor and hid under the bed, leaving he man-hunting to the special officers.

Barrundia was a short-sighted man and being very nervous he was unable to do any damage, though he chased the men out into the saloon, firing wildly. At last they dropped him riddled with shot on the hurrione deck. The brave Comandante thereupon came from his hiding place, walked to the dead man and fired a bullet into his skull. The dead body was rolled up in a piece of canvas and conveyed on shore in one of the boats. The other boat conveying the gallant perpetrators of the dead, their revolvers openly displayed, made a detour arousd by the United States warship. As they left the Acapulco some smilingly waved their hands, and one placed his thumb to his nose and extended his fingers in a well-known manner. Barrundia was a short-sighted man

"Still the incident was not over," said the gentleman who told the foregoing. "The Guatemalans had to wipe their feet a little more on the suffering ship, and she was not allowed to proceed until the baggage belonging to Barrundia was searched, presumably for evidence in criminating others. This was submitted to, the American gunboats still silent not a hundred yards away. Indeed, at the time of the tragedy an officer from one of them was on board the Acapulco. The Americans on board were full of indignation and shame at the whole affair. Capt. Pitts, it was generally held, was partly excusable for his action, seeing that he had applied in vain to the war ships for assistance and was confronted with an order from the American minister."

and was confronted with an order from the American minister."
The passengers condemn the action of the men-of-war, for they maintain that in any event they might have taken charge of Barrundia until some definite expression of will had come from Washington. They also condemn the action of the Minister, who, they thought, had no right to sign a man's death warrant; for they submit that at the time he did it he knew it amounted to that, no matter what the character that, no matter what the character

THE ATTACK ON MIZNER.

SAN FHANCISCO, Sept. 12.—[By the Associated Press.] Passengers on the eamer San Blas from Panama today state that the attempted assassination of Minister Mizner was a hoax. Barrundia's daughter went into the office of the United States Minister presumably with the intention of killing him, but when she was admitted to him, but when she was admitted to his presence her courage probably failed her and there was no scene.

When the San Blas left Guatemala everything was quiet, and it was thought by those on the steamer that the trouble was about over. Gen. Barrunda had evidently resolved to sell his life dearly and made up his mind to die rather than be captured. According to the story told, Capt. Pitts refused to give up his passenger until the last moment, and the General sought to repay his kindness by killing him. Pitts had previously appealed to the Captain of the Ranger, which was at San José with the Thetis. But a United States officer could not send marines aboard without a request from the comandants of the port. Every precaution

HOW BARRUNDIA DIED was taken for the safety of the passengers, they having been sent below as soon as the comandante went on board with Mizner's communication.

Negotiating for Peace. La Libertad (Salvador,) Sept. 12.— It is extremely difficult to obtain accurate information concerning the ac-tion and policy of the present government. Officials are reticent and keep a close watch upon all news sent out of the country. The general understanding is that negotiations for peace between Salyador and Guatemala are still in progress and no terms are yet definitely arranged. The provisional government convoked Congress in extraordinary session on the 10th. In that body today a decree recognizing the revolutionary government and formally declaring Gen. Ezeta Provisional President had its first reading and was accepted.

THOMAS A. LEWIS,

Grand Marshal Mosher's Chief of Staff for the Procession Tonight. The chief of staff appointed for the procession tonight by Grand Marshal Mosher has been a citizen of Los 'Angeles for a number of years, and is now pretty well known. It'is well assured that he will do his part to make the meeting a success. Mr. Lewis came from Kentucky, where for years he was a member of the State Central Committee from the State at large, and noted for his energy in the various contests of that State—always at the national conventions, and a staunch friend of Gen. Grant. For several years Mr. Lewis has been active here, giving his services to the party on all occasions. He has given to the public, with satisfaction, gratuitous work for a year as Police Commissioner. It is a singular circumstance that though Mr. Lewis is connected with many of the prominent families of Kentucky and Virginia, he is the only Republican in the family, all the others being staunch Democrats, and many of them, espe-cially the Adairs and McDowells, prominent in the party. But "Tom" Lewis never breathed a Democratic breath.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

The Driver of an Ice Wagon Badly Injured. One of the drivers of the Union Ice Company, named Eschevara, met with a serious, and perhaps fatal accident yesterday morning. The Buena Vista street bridge is closed for repairs, and a sign is suspended across the entrance to that effect. Eschevara did not to that effect. Eschevara did not notice the sign, and started to drive on the bridge, when he was struck on the head by the sign, knocking him senseless. His horses then ran to Cellege street, where he was pitched out of the wagon, again striking on his head. He was removed to his residence, and hedical aid summoned, but up to a late hour last night he had not recovered consciousness. The rope by which the sign is suspended had "sagged," letting the heavy board swing below the level of a man's head.

STREET IMPROVEMENT.

Interesting Talk With Councilman Bonsall.

STREET PAVING BONDS FOR

housands of Dollars Spent for Temporary Repairs Which Should Go Into Permanent Improvement.

Maj. W. H. Bonsall, Councilman

from the Fourth Ward and chairman of the Board of Public Works, has always taken a deep interest in street improvement, and some months ago outlined a plan for paving all the streets of the city by the issue of longterm street improvement bonds Nothing having been heard on the subect for some time, and thinking that the Major had given up his plan, a TIMES reporter yesterday asked him if such was the case, when he replied: "No indeed! It is an ever-present thought with me, but you must bear in mind that nothing can be done until the State Legislature meets, when a bill will be framed that will no doubt meet the point fully. It is the thing to do; let Wall street furnish the money and posterity pay off the bonds, by putting it on the tax duplicate the individual paying say one-twentieth or fifteenth of it each year. Wall street would take all the 5 per cent. bonds we could issue with such secur-ity, and all of our streets could be at once paved with some durable mater-

"Are there many graveled streets being constructed this summer?" asked the reporter.

the reporter.

"Scarcely any," replied Mr. Bonsa'l, "and I trust there will be as little of that work done as possible in future.
It is a sort of a nightmare with me, and I don't like to see the people throw their money away in that fashion.
Why look here (holding up-a card,) in addition to the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent annually by the people of Los Angeles for graveled streets, that is what it cost the taxpayers of Los Angeles for twelve months to run the office of Street Superintendent.

Los Angeles for twelve months to run the office of Street Superintendent. (The figures on the card were $183,-426.39, through Street Superintendent's office; $29.373.82 in the City Engineer's office.) This is no fault of the Street Superintendent, but of the system." "What does that mean?" "It means that most of that money has been spent by the Superintendent of Streets for reconstructing and patching up graveled streets, which will again be washed out by coming rains. It means that if we did not have to spend that money each year, patching up graveled streets, which will again be washed out by coming rains. It means that if we did not have to spend that money each year, that the amount of taxes to be raised annually would be that much less and our rate of taxation that much reduced. It means that after paying for the graveled streets individually, when they are first constructed, that the same individual as a taxpayer, keeps on paying for them over and over again. Take out your pencil and at 5 per cent, see what an amount of street improvement bonds could be paid on if we wanted to do it that way. The amount would furnish enough money to pay for a good many miles of fine streets of some durable material."

"Now when you speak of material for a street, that is a point that has not been touched upon. What are your ideas on that subject?"

"That is decidedly a leading question, as the lawyers would say, especially if you refer to the material for the top surface of streets. There are parties in Los Angeles engaged in the business of supplying bituminous rock, sheet asphalt, porphyry, etc., and it would be for the people of any particular street to select, not for me to suggest the material. I can only talk in a general sort of a way."

"In a general way, then, what can you say? You have given the subject of streets some thought and study no doubt?"

"In making a good street, the object should be to readous a directly and the produces of streets, the object should be to readous a directly and the produces of streets the object should be to readous a directly and the produces of streets, the object should be to readous a directly and the produces a directly tone another; but that which is best and most expensive, perhaps—is made of concrete—that is, cement mortar mixed with gravel or broken stone." "What materials are used for the surface? "Several, granite blocks, bituminous rock, asphalt, vitrified brick, porphyry, wood and cobble-stones. I might say as to cobble-stones, however, that their day is over so far as level streets are concerned. They are durable, cheap, and easily repaired, but are noisy, hard on vehicles, and not at all satisfactory or comfortable to persons riding on them. It has been said that there is not much harmony between modern civilization and cobble-stones. They are considered a relic of by-gone days, I might say of barbarism, so far as modern street improvement is concerned—but what I have said against cerned—but what I have said against cobble-stones does not apply to streets having steep grades. Here in Los Angeles the contour of the ground is such that many steep grades are presented, and we may yet find that the cheap and dispised cobble-stones are just the thing for the steep grades (though I think blocks would be better.) They furnish a good footing for horses, and as vehicles do not go rapidly up or down steep grades, the objection on account of noise is removed." "What about the others you have

"What about the others you have named?"

"We have specimens right here in Los Angeles of grante blocks, bituminous rock, asphalt and porphyry and our people can judge for themselves. The questions of cost and durability are prime factors—I am satisfied as to these points that granite blocks are the cheapest in the end on account of their durability, but they are not popular on account of the excessive noise created by passing vehicles, neither do they present as smooth a suriace as is desirable. Most of our business streets here in Los Angeles are paved with a material that is a natural deposit and it called bituminous lime rock. If the so-called asphalt, which is proposed, for streets, be genuine asphalt, it ought to make a good street. Inferior asphalts are made from a mixture of coal tar, which is itself a product of distillation and will soon loose by evaporation its volatile oils, and is then only a dry powder."

"I see in the order you have named that vitrified brick comes next; what about them?"

"I see by reports from cities east of the Rockies that they are in a perfect craze over vitrified brick for streets. Many cities are going head over heels into it and are using nothing else. Whether or not this is a wise thing to do remains to be seen. I am somewhat posted about vitrified brick, having been raised in a country abounding in fire clay and fire brick manufactories. We never thought of using the brick, however, for street paving. I did know of a piece of street paving done with fire brick at Charleston, W. Va., some nineteen years ago. It was laid on a block which was the businest street in town—about like Spring street in front of the Hotel Nadeau. It was put down as an experiment and I believe the fire brick had no foundation under them, except a cushion of sand. I saw this myself at the time, but having no particular interest in the place the matter had escaped my attention in all these years. I have recently heard from there to the effect that the same street pavement is there today, and is nearly as good ex when fire in all these years. I have recently heard from there to the effect that the same street pavement is there today, and is nearly as good as when first laid. The pavement was put down by one of Charleston's wealthy citizens—a Dr. Hale. A company has since been formed and letters patent have been secured, and the pavement is called the Hale Patent. The patent consists in laying the brick on edge, fishbone fashion, on thick boards, the boards having been previously dipped in tar or asphalt and laid lengthwise on a cushion of sand one inch thick. The patent could no doubt be avoided by laying the brick on a different foundation, and thus our people get a very fine street at a small cost. If you are going to print what I say, you should inform your readers that common building brick is not intended. It is made of a kind of fire clay, and about the same size as ordinary building brick. It should not be burned so as to make it smooth and hard like an occasional brick seen, but left rough, and burned to a certain point so that it will forever remain tough and there is plenty of the proper clay about and in the city of Los Angeles, and the brick ought not to cost much, if any, more than ordinary building brick."

PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Directors' Explanation of Miss Kelso's Demand.

At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Public Library, held yesterday, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted, in explanation of the demand of T. L. Kelso, the librarian, for $250 traveling expenses on her recent Eastern trip, which de-

Kelso, librarian, be allowed, on account of her said traveling expenses and disbursements, the sum of $250, and thereafter the said Tessa L. Now, therefore, this board having duly reconsidered the said menter and the said return and objection of said Auditor in the premises does again approve said demand and overrule said objection of said Auditor for the reasons hereinbefore set forth, and because the said demand consists really of but one item, and that the date thereof is the date of the resolution of this board, allowing said item towit, the 6th day of September, 1890, as set forth in said demand.

MINERS ENTOMBED.

Buried Alive Four Days and Nights.

FRIGHTFUL EXPERIENCE.

The Men Finally Rescued in an Unconscious Condition, But All Recover-The Intense

Last Monday morning the mouth of a shaft leading to one of the mines at Cargo Muchacho, about fifteen miles this side of Yuma, Ariz., caved in and imprisoned three Mexican miners. The rest of the shift, numbering about twenty men, had just lett the mine, and at first it was thought that everybody had escaped, but on counting heads it was found that three of the miners were missing. The men went to work at once, but they soon discovered that it would take them two or three days to open the shaft and they feared that before they could reach the entombed miners they would die from

The first thing to be done, under the circumstances, was to try and drive a pipe through the dirt so that they could pump air into the mine. They worked on this ten or twelve hours, but failed, and in a discouraged frame of mind they went to work to dig their companions out. They had about eighty feet of dirt to dig out, and as only three or four men could work at a time excavating progressed very atter a few minutes in the fresh air they began to show signs of life and soon came around.

They presented a most pitiful appearance however, for they had been in the hole almost four days without water or food and there was hardly enough to keep a mouse alive. The men looked more like skeletons than living human beings, and how life was kept in their bodies is a mystery. An old miner who came up from the mine living human beings, and how life was kept in their bodies is a mystery. An old miner who came up from the mine yesterday said to a Times reporter:

"When I heard that the men were entombed I hurried to the mine, and as I have had a good deal to do with mines during the past twenty years I took considerable interest in the matter and gave all the assistance in my power. I had no idea that we would find them slive, and was never more surprised in my life than I was when they showed signs of coming around after we drew them out. When the shaft is open it is hot enough to singe the hair off a cat's back, and while it was closed it must have been hot enough to roast beef. Now those men were in the hole almost four days and nights and how they managed to keep life in their bodies I do not knew. I do not believe there are three men in the United States who could stand it.

"When we got them out they presented a most horrible appearance. They had lost from 20 to 30 pounds aplece and their thin faces looked as if they had suffered the most intense pain. I have seen some terrible sights but nothing to compare with this."

He did not issan their names, and the agent at the nessest station on the line of the Southern Pacific, who was telegraphed to yesterday, could not get them, although he learned from a miner who left the mines yesterday morning that the men are rapidly recovering and will be all right in a few days.

THE RAILROADS.

Lively Row at Santa Ana Over the Newport Road. The people of Santa Ana are considerably worked up over a scheme to build a road from that city to Newport. About half of the people want port. About half of the people want to see the road built, while the others are bitterly opposed to it, and they are dancing on each other in the most approved style. Everybody in Santa Ana was excited over the matter yesterday and it is hard to tell where the affair will end. The road will certainly be of great benefit to the town but the kickers are determined that it shall not run through the principal street, while the others are equally as determined that it shall.

There is a good deal of complaint

There is a good deal of complaint among candidates for the various county officers about stories started that they are secretly working for places other than those for which they have announced themselves. These stories, it is said, are floated for the purpose of injuring the avowed candidates, and are in every instance without foundation, the object of the originators of the reports being to try and cause dissension among those who are in the fight.

Just what Justice King will do is not known, but he will probably decline to sign the report of his court for the present month until some provision is made for his payment.

Justice King was seen yesterday afternoon, and said that the story as published above was substantially correct, and that he only consented to act for half pay for Lockwood because he was in trouble and needed money to help him along—in fact, that it was an act of friendship on his part.

Mr. King also stated that Justice Savage also owed him about $150, for services while acting for him, but that, after waiting some time, he told Savage he would call everything even for $25. This Savage has not even paid, although he has repeatedly promised to do so, and he sees no way of getting his money. He says that it begins to look as though his associates were using him as a tool, and intimated that it is getting rather monotonous.

Late yesterday afternoon a smal boy reported at the Police Station that there was an old man in a shed at the grading camp at the corner of Orange and Farragut streets that needed at tention, as he appeared to be very sick. The patrol wagon was sent out to the place, where an old man, apparently in a dying condition from stervation; was found lying in an old bunk on some straw. He was frightfully ema-ciated, the bones almost coming through the skin, and was so weak that he could not speak. All of his surroundings were inexpressibly fifthy, and it was evident that he had been perfectly helpless for some days. As surroundings were inexpressibly fitthy, and it was evident that he had been perfectly helpless for some days. As soon as the officers arrived he made signs for water, which was given him, it is seemed to revive him slightly, and he was put on a stretcher and hurried to the Police Station. Here he was recognized as "Old Man" How ard, who formerly lived at Pomona, and was either a carpenter or plasterer by trade. He had some trouble with his wife and she had him arrested, and he served a term in the County Jall, and also had been locked up at the City Prison.

The old man was given a little whisky and water, but he could not be revived sufficiently to talk, or tell anything about how he came to be in his present condition, and when Dr. Morrison arrived, a few minutes after he was brought in, he saw that the case was hopeless. Nothing was left undone, however, by the physician, by which there was the slightest chance of resuscitating him, but without avail, and he died last night at 10:15 o'clock. Coroner Weldon was notified, and will hold an inquest today.

Nothing could be learned of how the remained so long without making his wants known. It was said that a man has known of his presence in the shed for the past week or ten days ago the old man was in the shed, and becoming so weak that he was unable to get out, literally starved to death.

It is supposed that he has been in the shed since he disappeared from the park, without food or water. Deterive Bosqui is of the opinion

LIGHTING THE CITY.

New Companies Anxious to Come In.

A MATTER OF SPECIFICATIONS

Remain a Monopoly Still Undecided—A Bit of

The Gas and Light Committee of the Council held another long session yesterday afternoon on the matter of new specifications for the lighting of the city. Councilmen Summerland, Bonsall, Hamilton, Wirsching and President Frankenfield were present, as were also the representatives of the Los Angeles Electric Light Company, who, at present, have the contract for the city lighting, and Mr. Keese, representing the Rhodes & Keese Company, who want to come in on the proposition.

Councilman Bonsall wanted the mat-ter so arranged that the city could have the benefit of competition, and for this reason favored dividing the and running wires on the streets, no bonus or concession of any kind being required. The Council was then Democratic, and the franchise was literally filibustered out of the way, technical objections being raised and the applicants so harassed and annoyed that finally in disguest they withdrew their petition. This action caused a good deal of comment for a time, but it finally dropped out of notice; and the electric lighting monopoly has remained unbroken up to the present time.

ONE of the most remarkable facts ever known in the history of ocean transportation is that steamers are at present willing to pay a premium to shippers to be allowed to take grain from Baltimore to Europe. THE MEETING TONIGHT.

Preparations are nearly completed for the grand Republican demonstration in the city tonight. A very large turnout is anticipated. There will be an imposing street parade and procession. Torches will flash, bonfires burn, trumpets blast, bands play and cannon roar. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance from adjacent towns. Our people are urged to turn out en masse and make the occasion s great success. The line of march will be short, so as to tire nobody, and the procession should be made a big one. The speaking will be at the Pavilion. where those accomplished orators, Estee and Reddick, will entertain and instruct the crowd.

Turn out, men and brethren, and make Rome howl!

THE LATE PRINTERS' STRIKE-THE TRUTH.

A citizen who has been absent from the city for some weeks asks THE Times to recapitulate briefly the facts in regard to the recent printers' strike in the offices of the daily papers of this city. We comply: First. The strike was not on account of wages or hours of labor.

Second. The proprietors of the four daily papers had had under consideration the question of retrenchment in their several establishments, and agreed unanimously in laying before the Typographical Union, for consideration, the question of a slight reduction in rates of composition-not, how ever, presenting any ultimatum. The union arbitrarily refused any concession, and on the 4th of August made a stand-and-deliver demand upon the proprietors to sign, within twentyfour hours, a contract maintaining existing rates for the period of one year. The proprietors, believing that to comply would be unmanly and de-grading, refused to sign. The strike followed within twenty-four hours, be ing put inte force at 5 o'clock on the afternoon of August 5th. The proprietors rallied and got out their papers without missing an issue, though much crippled for the time being.

Third. The union strikers having voluntarily abandoned good situations on THE TIMES and the Herald, and locked themselves out, the proprietors had no alternative left but to fill their places permanently, which they have done.

Fourth. The force employed by THE Times are members of the Printers' Protective Fraternity, a rival organzed-labor body. The men receive the same wages as their predecessors, are equally competent, more reliable, and not unjust or despotic in their demands. The Fraternity has discipline, solidarity and esprit du corps. The members work under laws, rules and regulations of their own, which do not interfere with that control which the proprietors have a right to exercise over their own property and business. Their motto is: "Live and let live."

Fifth. The attitude of THE TIMES towards organized labor cannot be suc-cessfully assailed. We confidently appeal to the unimpeachable judgment rendered by our pay-rolls from week to week during many years. For the year ended September 30, 1889, THE TIMES' composing-room bills aggregated $27,887.93, being a weekly average of $536.30. For the seven months and five days immediately preceding the strike-that is, from December 31st, 1889, to August 5th, 1890, inclusive-THE TIMES furnished to the mistaken men who went out on strike steady and lucrative employment aggregating 4213 days, being a little over 762 weeks of six working days each. For this serservice we paid $17,114.40, averaging pear to be in a fair way of settlement $2,444.91 per month. or $570.40 per the labor unions have not carried the per week, being an increase over the rate be submitted to the United States Suaverage pay per man during this period, instead of being lower than formerly, was high; it was a trifle over $4.06 per day all around. The averages made by individual members of the force were as follows:

Assistant foreman (when working full

Day foreman per week.

Seventh. In the emergency which was forced upon us by the action of the gro suffrage. "Yes, that's what we're Typographical Union, against the wish of many of its best members, there were but three alternatives left to us as proprietors of THE TIMES, responsible to the public for its daily appearance. These alternatives were: (1) Surrender to the unjust and tyrannical demands of the strikers; (2) suspension of publication and abandonment of business: (3) the employment of a new force to take the place of the strikers. We could not think of accepting either the first or the second alternative, but chose the third as being necessary right and expedient. Eighth. The result has proven satground to stand upon. They see their mistake, regret their course, and wish they were restored to the good positions which they voluntarily abandoned But it is too late!

Tenth. A boycott cannot succeed in this community.

FACTS ABOUT THE FUR SEAL.

The latest contribution to the discus sion of the Bering Sea fur-seal ques-tion is an article in the North American Review for September, by D. O. Mills, who is reputed to be a stock-holder in the North American Commercial (fur sealing) Company. Mr. Mills shows that the last refuge of the fur seal is in the Pribylov group (St. Paul's and St. George's Islands) in American waters, and in the islands of Bering, Copper and Robbins of the Commander group lying near the Siberian coast, the latter group being the property of Russia. He refers to a Spanish legend that there was once an abundance of seals on the Santa Barbara and Guadaloupe Islands, and on the neighboring peninsula, whence a few were annually taken up to 1835. Some were also found on the Farallones, off San Francisco. Mr. Mills believes that, if things are allowed to go on as at present, the fur-bearing seal will eventually disappear in Alaskan waters. He estimates that every sealskin placed on the market by those who unlawfully kill them in the open waters represents the destruction of six or eight seals. The poachers, in the main, kill only the females, the males being strong and alert, and able to get beyond shooting distance. It is reported that, out of 25,000 sealskins which resulted from the work of those engaged in the poaching traffic, only one male skin could be found. Yet s British Member of Parliament recently asserted that the poachers do not kill the female seals! At this rate, it would not take more than five years to make the fur-seal as scarce as the buffalo.

The two [three] islands owned by Russia, which are now under lease, are seldom visited by British or American vessels, the Russian authorities, according to Mr. Mills, making short work, by confiscation and punishment, of vessels found poaching in that quar ter. They have even fired into foreign vessels, without eliciting complaints from the flags thus assailed.

Mr. Mills makes the following strong points, in an argument directed to show that Great Britain has a large and direct interest in the maintenance of the Bering Sea fisheries—an interest that is shared by no other country:

that is shared by no other country:

Nearly nine-tenths of the fur-seal skins taken every year go directive to London to be dressed, at least ten thousand people being engaged in that city in the work of preparing the skins for the market. Here is an English industry which depends for its continued existence, at its present proportions at least, on the success of the policy of preserving the Bering Sea fine-ries from the fatal inreads of poschers. As a fur-wearing people, the English have as fur-wearing people of the period to the form of the fur-wearing people of the people cited the capitalty of the hard destroyed, or be instrumental in alding those whose operations, if continued, must east in its destruction. And, looking at this question from a commercial point of view, it would be difficult for any nation to justify itself if by contrivance or connivance it should be accessory to the practical extinguishment of a species of animal which is of commercial importance, and which with proper care, might be preserved to commerce for all time. Indeed, the exigencies of the situation might justify combined action on the part of all nations interested merce for all time. Indeed, the exigencies of the situation might justify combined action on the part of all nations interested for the protection of the waters of Bering Sea pending the settlement of the present diplomatic dispute,

There is little doubt that, if the British people, who are essentially logical and matter-of-fact, could divest their minds of the glamor of inter-national honor and rights which has been thrown about this question, they would be quick to regard the matter in its true light, and to see that the interest of England in the fur seal is really that of the United States. The suggestion made by a prominent preme Court may prove a satisfactory solution of the vexed question.

IT is remarkable that the tourist sea son at our seaside resorts, such a Santa Monica, Long Beach and Redondo Beach, should be so short, in view of the climatic attractions, which are constant all the year round. As is the case in San Francisco, the winter is really, from many points of view, the most enjoyable time of year on the Southern California coast. The skies are then blue and clear, the hills green and the rains have laid the dust When tourists understand this, our coast resorts will be crowded, winter and summer.

UNDER the head of "Excellence Re war ded," a circular sheet published by some disgruntled printers in Los Angeles recently contained a highly laudatory notice of the labor page of the American Press Association, which is issued every two weeks, for the es pecial benefit of the labor papers of the country. Commenting upon this, the Santa Monica Outlook remarks:

It declares it the duty of Congress to pass a law perpetually excluding Chinese from the United States. It declares for the free coinage of silver, to be legal tender equally with gold. By Telegraph to The Times.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—[By the Associated Press.] The Raum investigating committee met this morning at the Pension building for the purpose of taking the testimony of 188 clerks, who, it was charged, received promotions by reason of their purchasing stock in the Universal Retrigerator Company. The committee, however, decided not to call any clerks for examination for the following reasons: Gen. Raum requested the committee to subpœna every employé of the Pension Department who has been promoted under his administration of the office to disprove the charge that any such employés have purchased or held stock in the Universal Refrigerator Company or have been promoted by reason thereof. The committee declined to comply with his request on the ground that it would, in their opinion, judging from the evidence already taken, be useless consumption of time and a needless expense

The committee then adjourned. This practically closes the investiga-

A Bill Designed to Head off Demo-cratic Schemers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—[By the Associated Press.] Mr. Burton of Ohlo today introduced in the House a bill to regulate the division of States into Congress districts. The bill provides that within twelve mouths after the passage of the apportionment act States shall be divided into Congress districts by a districting board in each districts by a districting board in each State composed of four resident members, two of each political party, to be appointed by the Governor. The districts are to consist of contiguous territory and no district to have more than one member. A district is not to be divided unless its population exceeds by one-tenth the number necessary to entitle it to representation, except in States electing Representatives by towns; and a district is to coptain more than one-twentieth, more or less, or inhabitants than the number necessary to entitle it to a Representative. Districts are to be composed of compact territory bounded as nearly as may be by subdivisions or natural boundaries. There is to be a national board of five members, four politically divided and the other a Judge of the Supreme. District or Circuit United States Court, appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, to act in case of failure to act or disagreement of a State board. Districts made by these boards are to remain intact until the next census apportionment. State composed of four resident mem

THE TARIFF BILL.

A House Committee Considering the Senate Amendments. WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.- | By the Associated Press. | This morning the Ways and Means Committee held a session to discuss the Senate amendments to the Tariff Bill. As the bill itself has not reached the committee, no formal conclusions could be noted. and the proceedings were entirely confined to general discussion. There was practical agreement that the amendments should be considered by the committee, instead of acceding at once to the request of the Senate for conference. A pronounced disposition is both the Rep Democratic sides to hasten action in committee as much as possible.

Some Democratic members say if it should be attempted in the House to pass the threatened resolution to interfere with Ohio districts as estabterfere with Ohio districts as estab-lished by the last gerrymander, or force through other pronounced parti-san measures, a resort will be had to all parliamentary means to obstruct the Tariff Bill.

"UNCLE JERRY" HOPEFUL The Recent Crop Report Not a Bug

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12-[By Associated Press. | Secretary Rusk in an interview with a reporter today upon the excitement in the grain mar kets caused by fear of a short crop said: "Of course the fact that there was a slight falling off in the quantity of the crops had its effect upon the markets, but the tendency has been upward as far as prices are on all cereals. I attribute the incre on all cereals. I attribute the increase to other causes than shortage in the crop statement. That this has been the lightest yield for 20 years I cannot agree. This may be the case with the barley crop. The shortage in the yield of some cereals was anticipated in the June report."

"You don't apprehend any squeeze?"

"Why, not a bit. The Government reports have considerable influence in checking any complicated corner, and everybody is enabled to know the procise condition of the crop."

"Is it a fact that the report is the most unfavorable ever issued?" was asked.

"Not at all. The cotton crop is extraordinarily good. Oats are probably lower than they have been for twenty years, but that is the only weak point, with the exception of the barley crop, which was very prolific last year, however."

which was very profile last your."

"How is the quality?"

"Uniformly fair, except as I have stated, with oats, which are not only short but poor in quality. I think this country should raise less wheat and import less barley. We export wheat and import barley and there is no reason why we should not raise it all."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Gen. Nettleton, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in response to inquiries by a reporter of the Associated Press, tonight, made the following statement: night, made the following statement:

The Treasury Department today, in addition to regular disbursements, which were unusually heavy, paid out $2,348,084 on account of bond purchases and advance interest. Four per cents purchased today were accepted at 125. This is the first considerable purchase of 4 per cents for some time. It is thought there may be an impression among holders of 4 per cent bonds that the Government has windrawn from the market for 4 per cents. This is not the the fact. The Treasury is ready to take a considerable amount of fours if they are to be had. The total balance of duties due on all imported merchandise in bond at the port of New York on September 1st was only $17,500,000. Only a moderate portion of these goods will be subject to increased duty under the schedule in the new tariff bill. These facts would seem to indicate that the anxiety based on this feature of the situation is largely without foundation.

The 78 Chinese who were drowned were not offered the slightest assistance and were left to their own resources, and they were drowned like so many rats. Several dories were in the hold of the vessel and had the officers taken off the hatch they could have been pressed into service. Many lives would then have been saved. The sailors pulled away from the bark and left the Chinese to perish or save themselves as best they could.

AN ANCIENT FAKIR.

Something of a Ladies' Man And an Accomplished "Beat."

Yesterday Chief Glass received a telegram from Sheriff Seymour at San Bernardino, telling him to be on the lookout for James Sikes, who was wanted at that place. Sikes is an Englishman about 70 years of age, who played a brilliant engagement in this city. The old reprobate came from San Francisco, where he claimed to have been robbed of all his money. He said he was looking for his sister. who had sent to England for him to come out here and live with her. He played his game so well that he got on the blind side of the police authorities and excited a good deal of sympathy. After hanging about a week or two he started a story that he had fallen heir to a large estate in England, and on the strength of it, got into the good graces of a widow, whom he promised to marry, and succeeded in getting several weeks' board. He then secured a situation with a blind doctor named Smith, and finally ran away with Smith's wife, an old woman who was ca tured by his tales of fabulous wealth. At San Bernardino, it appears, he has been playing the same game, he having captivated a 50-year-old widow, at that place, a Mrs. Turner, who is a professional Christian healer, whom he also promised to marry. After borrowing what money he could, Sikes skipped out. Mrs. Turner, however, does not propose to let him off so easily, and she wants the old reprobate brought back and punished. who had sent to England for him to bate brought back and punished.

The Strange Way in Which Antrim Wor rillow Became Bald.

rillow Became Bald.

Media has been treated to a novel entertainment in the court house, and it attracted large audiences. Antrim Worrillow was driving along a public road in Lower Chichester some time ago, and came upon a scene that is seldom witnessed outside of Spain and her old colonies. It was a bull fight. With locked horns and foaming mouths two gentlemen cows were engaged in a duel in the king's highway, to

His horse fearing bulls, as all his kind do, slid sidewise to the farthest admissible place and endeavored to pass by, regardless of consequences and of the restraint of his master. All would have been well but for a solltary tree that sent its branches overhanging the road, and it was these that tore the top off of the Dearborn, broke the traces and shot Mr. Worrillow out into the road. He was picked up insensible, and road. He was picked up insensible, and suffered for weeks before being able to get suffered for weeks before being able to get about again.

Mr. Worrillow brought suit against the road supervisors for $5,000 damages for negligence in permitting the highway to be obstructed by the tree, and Judge Clayton wrestled with this for two full days, uncertain whether the blame rested on the bulls, the road, the tree or the horse, but with inclination toward the bulls.

Worrillow produced many witnesses as to the facts, and Dr. Stellwagen, of Philadelphia, as to the cause of his baldness, for his hair had all fallen out. The doctor called his disease allopecia areata, which

The defense had also an array of witnesses, and among these Dr. D. Lannoy, of Chester, who differed with Stellwagen, as doctors invariably do. He said Mr. Wornellow's disease weapon a system on the other side, so he thought, but it was parasitical and could be cured, the shock having nothing to do with it.

The judge hardly knew what to do, and especially did he knownothing at all about medical matters. As he was brought up on a farm he did know all about bulls, and there were many of these in his charge. He told the jury they were twelve sensible men and could settle the question by the facts, although these were somewhat clearly liable; but if the tree was the sole cause of the accident and the bulls did not run against it, then the tree should bear the blame; but if the bulls scared the horse into the tree and all together contributed to the general wreck, it was for the jury to divide the conspirators and lay the dam-ages accordingly. As the bulls had no money and could not be assessed, the tree should only be charged with its share, and this would fall on the supervisors to pay, therefore no excessive amount should be

Standard of the Prophet There is some controversy as to the present whereabouts as well as to the actual composition of the famous "Standard of Mohammed," the "Sanyak-Sherif" or sacred flag of Mohammedism. According to The North German Gazette it is in the mutally actually the Go. seum of artillery at Turin, Italy. The Gazette says that it was formerly in the mosque of Abou Ayoub, Constantinople, but that Baron Tecco, the Sardinian ambassador, purchased it in the year 1839 and sent it to King Charles Abert. The same account says that it is of red silk, with several verses from the Koran embroidered upon it in yellow letters, and that its height is slightly over 6 feet and its width 41/4 feet. A correspondent for one of the big London dailies, who claims to have recently seen the sacred emblem in the se-raglio, says that it is of yellow silk, and that it was formerly one of the flowing curtains that adorned the room of Mohammed's favorite wife.

Feeding Chickens.
George H. Northrop, American Cultivator.
Editor of the American Cultivator So much importance is attached to this subject that we can hardly emphasize it enough. Many foods and methods of feeding are closely allied to, if not worse than, starvation; for, while a few chicks manage to exist on hard fare, many are dying from the effects of it, or living only to fall victims to the first baneful epidemic they encounter. The very weak digestive organs of any young creature are very easily irritated, because of their extreme tenderness, and once offended by improper food it is a hard matter always to restore them to the normal condition, even if it is possible to do so at all. Often it is utterly impossible. At the very best, the time used to recuperate the debilitated system is virtually lost as far as growth and development are concerned. For the vital energies consumed in the restorative process cannot make any progress until the restoration is accomplished. Overfeeding at one time is often the result of the same serious consequences. For by being thus overtaxed So much importance is attached to this Overfeeding at one time is often the result of the same serious consequences. For by being thus overtaxed the organs of assimilation are unable to properly perform their functions, and the food, instead of being utilized for the good intended, becomes only a useless irritant.

Uncooked food for chickens, especially raw cornmeal, is very apt to ferment; and cause distention of the organs, besides otherwise injuring them gans, besides otherwise injuring them gans, besides otherwise injuring stem-by its sourness. Neither does it fur-nish in requisite proportions the ma-terials needed for growth. In combi-nation with other grains, corn is a valu-able food, and just here I will give a formula for food which I have found and to tood, and last here I will give a formula for feed which I have found excellent for growing chicks. It is as follows: Two bushels wheat, two bushels corn, one bushel oats, one bushel barley, one-half bushel buckwheat and a peck of peas. To prepare the above for feeding have all ground together in fine meal. Stir Into a thick batter with sour milk or water, using soda to make it light, as required by the sourness of wetting, and only a very little sods if water is used. Bake in an oven until thoroughly dipe. Chicks will thrive well on this untibeld enough to eat whole grain, and it is well to use it for one meal each day even then.

When the chicks are first hatched I give them hard-bolde eggs, with the above or bread crumbs for a few days. Though many poultry raisers discovered the last unnecessary and decourser this as unnecessary and decourser the as unnecessary and decourse.

Though many poultry raisers discourage this, as unnecessary and too expensive, I think it pays well. I theorize in this way in regard to it: The chick must be formed wholly from substances contained in the egg he was substances contained in the eggs must contain substances that will be required for the first growth of his various organs. Young chicks should be fed as much as they will eat up quickly, five times rillow's disease was not as stated on the other side, so he thought, but it was parasitical and could be cured, the shock having nothing to do with it.

The judge hardly knew what to do, and especially did he know nothing at all about medical matters. As he was brought up on a farm he did know all about bulls, and there were many of these in his charge. He told the jury they were twelve sensible men and could settle the question by the facts, although these were somewhat mixed.

If the bulls smashed the wagon and the tree did not touch it, then the bulls were clearly liable; but if the tree was the sole extra good ones. A very few extra good laying hens will repay all additional care that is needed, more than is usually given. Let us remember always that the growing period will not continue always, and the more devices the state of the st velopment we can get while the chick is young the better.

A reporter of the London Daily News, who has been making a tour of Limer-ick, Waterford and parts of Cork, gives a deplorable account of the of the potato crop. He says the never appeared before so early.

What Rev. Mr. Hill Saw in Northern California.

BIG BUILDING BOOM

In This Section Predicted by th Men Who Furnish the Lumber-Pasadena for Fine Residences.

In the course of a short conversation yesterday morning, THE TIMES reporter was given an interesting description of Rev. D. Hill's recent trip to the redwood forests in the northern part of the State. Rev. Hill e trip for business and pleasure, and he had plenty of both.

The business part came in looking up the interests of a Congregational Church in Eureka, Humboldt county, which, on account of an unworthy pastor and an inefficient board of trus tees, had become entangled in a mesh of financial difficulties and was on the brink of total dissolution. Rev. Hill appeared on the scene soon after the astor had run away. New officers were elected, a new preacher secured, the debts cleared away and the church established on a more prosperous footing than ever. So much for the busi-

The pleasure came in in inspection of the lumber machinery in the wonderful forests of Humboldt county. Said the genial pastor: "It is a wonderful country. The redwood forests extend over a strip of country 20 miles wide and lying near the coast from Mendocino county to the Oregon line. There is only one other redwood forest in the world, and it is in Africa. I went by steamer by San Francisco to Humboldt Bay, the only harbor between the Golden Gate and Puget sound.

"The virgin redwood forests are indescribable. The trees average from 250 to 350 feet in height and it is not hard to find plenty with diameters ranging from 16 to 18 feet. I have a photograph of a tree 22 feet through. They are felled in a scientific manner so that they fall in parallel directions. They are straight as arrows, which facilitates this part of the work. The bark is stripped off with crowbars. This, together with the brush and branches is then burned, but the trees are not harmed by the flames. You might as well try to burn a chunk of ice as a redwood tree.

"Next the felled trunks are divided into huge logs from 18 to 20 feet long. By means of a 'donkey' portable ensure the logs are dragged down the hills to one of the numerous guillies that lead down into the level country. At the head of the gully a number of the logs are fastened together and drawn down the grade by teams of oxen, six or seven yokes comprising a team. The driver of the axen is the best paid man in the business. The logs are made to move more easily by throwing water in their course. A raiiroad is built to the head of the gully, which transports the logs to the bay, where they are floated to the immense mills and hewn into planks and boards of all dimensions. This process of lumber making is wonderfully interesting."

cess of lumber making is wonderfully interesting.

"I was rejoiced to find these Northerners predict a great building boom in Southern California this winter. In fact, they say, it has already begun. They speak authoritively for the demand for lumber from this section is larger now than it has been for years, and they claim it will continue.

"Only those possessed of vigorous constitutions can stand the climate in the lumber region. In winter it is very cold. Fres are necessary to keep one comfortable all summer and heavy fogs roll in every night. I also visited many of the towns and cities of Contral California, and I say unhesitatingly that none of them approach Pasadena as a place of residence. I come back more confident than ever that a great future lies before our beautiful city."

the country has known for 20 years. Not only are the peaches affected, but the apples and pears are far below the usual supply. The loss to the Delaware Peninsula and Maryland will be close to four million dollars. In this connection the fact should not be lost sight of that peaches, which have been stripped so abundantly from California this summer, are one of the best money distributors that grow. They mean money to those who pick them, money to the transportation companies, money to the canning house employés, and money to the manufacturers and handlers of canned goods.

What the Flags Mean. By reading what follows you will know what the weather signal flags on the Webster cupalo mean: A square the Webster cupalo mean: A square white flag indicates clear or fair weather; a square blue flag, rain; a square flag, half white and half blue, light or local rains. The temperature is foretold by a black triangular flag. The white flag with the black below it indicates fair weather and colder. The blue flag with the black above it indicates warmer weather with rain. The black flag with both the white and the blue below it indicates warmer, fair weather, followed by rain.

Go to Los Angeles. Since the Markham Club has post poned its mass meeting until next week, there should be a full turnout of Pasadenians this evening at the Los Angeles meeting, and doubtless there will be. It is likely that a large repre-sentation from the local club will go in a body. The Markham Guards may also attend. The Cross road will run a special train and will provide ample accommodations for as many as will go. Let there be a good turnout.

New York, Sept. 12.—The stock market was again influenced by a scarcity of money while bear manipulation screws were again put on to increase the already sufficient demoralization of weak holders of stock. The stringency has now continued so long that Wall Street is beginning to fear that it will in time progress, the holmess of the will in time prostrate the business of the whole country. The rate again went up 1/2 per cent premium and interest, but later in the day, when the rumor was circulated that the Secretary of the Treasury was in town and in conference with leading bank-ers, and had been offered a large block, the 4 per cent rate again went down to nearly gal rate and finally closed at that figure The market opened weak and lower, but a sharp rally took place and losses were soon recovered with the easing up of money. The money market became firm, and finally closed quiet and firm with generally small fractions better than the oper ing prices, but irregular changes from night's final prices. THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

OUR NEW FALL STOCK RAP IDLY DISAPPEARING.

Those Dress Goods at Pive Cent a Yard are Nearly All Gone— Double Advantage of Our Methods.

PEOPLE'S STORE.

Saturday, Sept. 13, 1890.

In times gone by it was customary for merchants to earry over stock from one season to another, and some do it yet, but with us it is different. When the season is with us it is different. When the season is drawing to a close we put the prices down so low that when the season ends we have nothing left. By doing this we give you an opportunity of laying in a supply of goods for less than half the price you would be compelled to pay for them, and it enables us to start the season with an entirely new line of goods. Some of our new goods have already arrived and some of them are nearly all gone. Our line of Dreas Goods at 55 a. all gone. Our line of Dress Goods at 5c a yard, which can be seen in our window, is nearly all gone, over one thousand yards sold yesterday; today will see the last of them. Our Ladles' Hose, three pair 25c, one of the greatest bargains you ever saw, are rapidly disappearing, and so with the hundreds of other things, some of which you will find in our list below.
